The Litmos Author Custom Services Approach

---

We've designed a systematic approach where we'll ask you for basic information to assess your training needs, quote you a price and timeline, develop and manage the project based on milestones and sign offs, and review & approve the project collaboratively. Whether you're converting existing manuals or instructor-led presentations into online learning, or designing and developing objectives and design strategies from the ground up, we have the knowledge, experience, and tools to make it happen efficiently and effectively.

Analysis

In this phase, our experienced designers understand your objectives and review existing training material to clearly outline business problems to be addressed.

Design

Building on the understanding of your objectives and review of existing collateral, we design new courses including content, engaging interactions and adding required corporate branding.

Development

We identify the core development team that goes through the process of creating course content, media files including videos, audio and graphics required.

Deployment

Once approved, we will help deploy your new courses to your eLearning LMS for Flash or mobile delivery.
